Designated Contact Persons (DCP)

Designated Contact Persons (DCP) are the first point of contact for any person who feels they may be a victim of bullying or harassment.

They are available to provide 'off the record' support during normal working hours. A trained DCP is available to both the complainant and the respondent party.

The Designated Contact Person will endeavour to:

- Listen to your issues and concerns
- Talk through the options available including professional mediation; the policies etc.
- Explain how the procedure prescribed in the policies operate
- Outline the supports available to you
